

Shopping by Television? Not Very Likely

by Ruth Millett, Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

By 1975 American housewives will do much of their shopping from home by way of color television. That's one of the predictions made in a report of the Stanford Research Institute.

I wouldn't dare argue with the report, but it's a little hard for me to believe that women in great numbers are willingly going to give up shopping in person.

For one thing, a shopping trip gets a woman out of the house, and that's no small consideration in itself.

For another thing, the shopping trip is often a shared experience for a woman. She calls up a friend; they take off for a day of shopping, have a good visit over a leisurely lunch and it's a fine day—even if neither buys a thing.

Then there's the matter of comparing, which is important to a woman. A man will walk into a store and buy the first suit a salesman shows him if he happens to like it. But a woman wants to look at and try on dress after dress before she makes a purchase. Only then is she satisfied that she has the most becoming dress available.

Furthermore, a woman likes to use all of her senses when she makes a purchase. She sniffs the face powder; feels the fabric of a suit; insists on taking a fabric to daylight when she is trying to make a perfect color match. She sits in the chair she is considering buying. She runs her hand over a tabletop. How can she know what she likes—just seeing it on color television?

Busy as she is today (and she probably won't be much busier in 1975, how could she?) the American woman still finds time to shop, and even time to enjoy it.

It's a purely feminine pleasure. That's why men can't understand it.

And unless in a few brief years the American woman comes less feminine than she is at present, it's going to be hard to sell her on the idea of looking at something on television and ordering it over the telephone.

The New Starlets:

It's Like Going to College

By DICK KLEINER
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

(Second in a series.)

HOLLYWOOD — (N E A) — "The word starlet," says Sabrina Scharf, "implies someone who wants to be a star. I don't, particularly. I want to be a good actress."

Sabrina Scharf is one of the very few young actresses (or actors, for that matter) who are under contract to a studio. This used to be the main avenue to Hollywood success, but today only a few studios will sign unknowns.

Columbia is one of them. Columbia maintains a workshop where its young contract players—there are 12 of them, at last count—spend their days studying. It is almost like going to college. There are scheduled classes, a faculty, even grades.

But the students get paid. Sabrina Scharf signed a seven-year contract with Columbia last October. She gets paid every week. The studio can use her in their pictures or television shows (Screen Gems is Columbia's television subsidiary) but she doesn't get paid any more when she's working than when she's going to classes.

So far, in her three months

SABRINA SCHARF: Who wants to be a star?

at Columbia, Sabrina has done two small parts—one, on "The Farmer's Daughter," the other on "Gidget."

For Sabrina Scharf, the Columbia Workshop is a waystation on a long and exciting trail. Already, her life has been a full one.

She's from Delphos, Ohio, but she says she didn't grow up until she went to southern New Mexico. And she grew up under unusual conditions—she was married at the time.

When she was 14, she married her algebra teacher. He had a ranch in New Mexico's White Mountains and it was there they lived—eight miles from the nearest neighbor, 26 miles from the nearest town (Springerville, Ariz.). This was wild country, full of wolves and coyotes; once she was trapped in her garage by a mountain lion.

When all that ended, she lit out for New York where she discovered acting. But she had no training. She became a Playboy Club bunny and saved up enough money to go to Europe. She toured the continent for five months on a motorcycle, sleeping outdoors most nights.

Then she went back to New York, studied acting and managed to get the screen test which led to her present contract.

Sabrina Scharf hopes to establish her name as an important one.

"You have to have a name here," she says. "Twice I've lost parts because I wasn't a big name—once to Millie Perkins and once, on a Ben Casey, to Dana Wynter. But I'm not trying to establish my name through publicity—good luck to anyone who does it that way—but through hard work."

THE DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Angina Pectoris Attack May Signal Heart Seizure

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My doctor says I have angina pectoris with insufficient cardiac circulation. What would cause this and what is the treatment?

A—This disease is caused by a spasm or narrowing of the coronary arteries that nourish the heart muscle. The attacks may be brought on by a severe emotional strain, sudden exposure to cold or sudden exertion. It is often a forerunner of a true heart attack or coronary occlusion, which may come on at any time—even in your sleep. The same type of chest pain is produced by angina and by a heart attack.

Persons with angina should take this as a warning and avoid precipitating a heart attack by cutting out smoking, keeping weight within the normal range and getting plenty of exercise in the form of walking, cycling or swimming, but not tennis or any competitive sport.

Anyone with angina should have a thorough examination to rule out such other causes of chest pain as pleurisy, cardiac neurosis, diseases of the liver, gall bladder or spine, and diaphragmatic hernia.

Once the diagnosis is established, long-acting nitrates give the best relief. Dipyridamol, pronethalol, griseofulvin and probenecid are also helpful in some victims. These are all prescription drugs and your doctor should help you

NEW YORK — (N E A) — "Will machines ever replace secretaries?"

Patricia Flynn gives an emphatic "no" answer to that question in her book, "The Complete Secretary" (Pitman, $4.95), and in a chat about her experiences as an author and a working gal in some top-level executive suites. Miss Flynn believes:

"A businessman is confronted with so many machines, from the automatic elevator to the computerized information he uses regularly, that he always will find it a relief to have another human being around to do everything from serving coffee to giving an opinion on a business matter."

"Many secretaries denigrate their own profession when instead they should be proud of their highly skilled abilities. A good executive secretary will always be able to find a job."

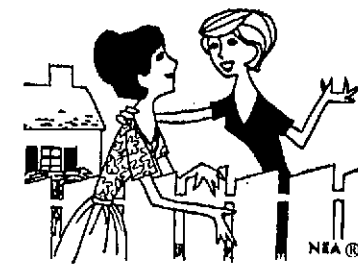

Miss Flynn wrote the book because she felt there was a need for guidelines for girls who want to be executive secretaries. This secretary found some very helpful hints in the book.

Some of Miss Flynn's suggestions for the would-be Gal Friday are:

- Decide what type of person you are. Do you like to work under pressure or would you do a better job in a place where you work at your own speed?

- Decide just where you want to work and go after it.

- Once you have a job that suits you, your most important "friend" in the beginning is the filing cabinet. Study correspondence and learn. This way you get to know what is most important Squabbles with a neighbor get out of hand. End the cold war with an apology, even when right.

Patricia Flynn, author of "The Complete Secretary," ought to know her subject. She's a secretary.

and how the company handles different matters.

- When you start a new job it is very important to do things the way your boss wants them done, not the way you did them on the last job. You are the one who must adapt, not him.

"Many girls just use the job until they find a husband. There is nothing wrong with this. In fact, it is the natural thing to do," says Miss Flynn, who was married when she was a secretary.

"But while you are at the job you should take as much interest in it as possible. When you are interested you become interesting and it follows that you will naturally attract more men than the girl with the bored, disinterested face which she has acquired on her boring (to her) job."

In writing her book, Miss Flynn draws from an impressive background. Not only has she been an executive secretary to such people as Robert Kintner, while he was president of NBC; Ogden Reid, former publisher of the New York Herald Tribune; and Irene Selznick, the Broadway producer, but she has also done public relations work and has been a court reporter.

Miss Flynn's final tips for an executive secretary are:

- Keep your perspective. Take everything in your stride and don't get too impressed with your own importance.

- Be professional. Your skills are as important to you as a doctor's are to him. Be sure that the letters you turn out are a credit to you and that everything you do in the office reflects your professionalism.

Right Start Makes a Difference in Sewing

by Mary Brooks Picken
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When you have your fabric, pattern, thread, fasteners and are ready to begin your sewing venture, there are a few preliminary steps to take before you begin.

Straighten your fabric by pulling diagonally, first one way and then the other. Then pull a crosswise thread, stretching it diagonally. Press the fabric, if necessary, before laying it out to cut.

Place the fabric on your cutting surface. Then press your pattern pieces flat.

Read the instructions. Check the width of your fabric with the pattern layout.

Place the pattern pieces on the fabric, following layout instructions for the grain of the fabric. Cut with care.

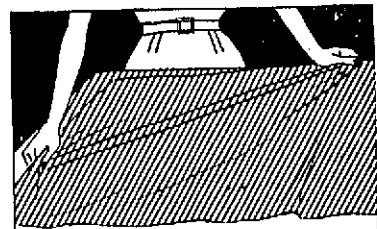

Cut away the selvage or clip it so it cannot tighten or bulk your seam.

Allow extra seam width if you are larger in hips or bust than your pattern.

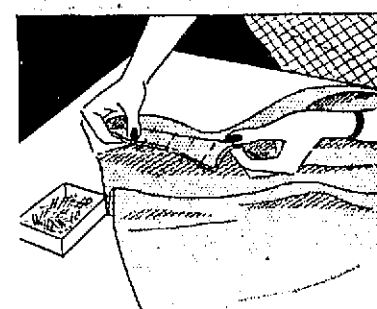

Before removing your pattern, mark all darts, notches, and construction lines. Use chalk or crayon paper and the edge of a table knife or dull tracing wheel to go over dart lines for example. Rough surfaces are best marked with tailor tacks.

Pin-baste before stitching if you are sure of correct fit. Otherwise baste by hand using 3/8-inch basting stitches.

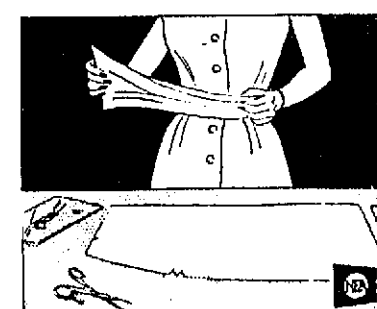

Test your stitch on two thicknesses of the fabric before you begin to stitch the garment. Fine fabrics need a short stitch, thicker fabrics a longer stitch.

Many custom shops are using the shortest zigzag stitch. I recommend this for all body seams when jersey is the fabric used. This gets more thread length in the seams and helps prevent the thread from breaking.

Keep your iron ready. Press each seam before it joins another. Press as you sew so that smooth seams are assured.

Use a low temperature iron for man-made fabric, a moist cloth over woollens and cheesecloth over silks.

PROPPED ON PROP—The motorcycle is more than a picture prop for actress Sue Ann Langdon. She put it to use in the film "When the Boys Meet the Girls," in which she has a leading role.

TILT-WING TEST MODEL—Designed for both commercial and military use, the CL-84 developed by a Canadian subsidiary of General Dynamics in co-operation with the Canadian government can switch wing positions from vertical to horizontal in flight. Bottom, wings and propeller engines are in vertical position for horizontal take-off. Center, the wings tilt forward as the plane picks up speed. Top, with wings locked in horizontal position, the CL-84 flies as a conventional plane at 350 m.p.h. It can carry a two-man crew and 12 passengers.

Sartorial Crisis Didn't Matter

GANDER, Nfld. (AP) — Despite a sartorial crisis, the premier of Newfoundland greeted Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip on a stopover here.

"Not many politicians greet the queen of England with a hole-in their pants," Premier Joseph R. Smallwood quipped Tuesday.

The premier said by the time he noticed the tear it was too late. He had already arrived at Gander airport to meet the royal couple whose plane stopped over en route to the Caribbean. "So I wore 'em," he said.

Men are Meeker

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — A Cornell University researcher who studied 800 married couples in Syracuse says married men are becoming quieter, meeker and less demanding.

And says Prof. Harold Feldman of the State College of Home Economics married women are becoming more talkative and aggressive. Feldman said similar research will have to be done in other parts of the country to produce a representative picture.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — It was an evening when not a single special program ripped the network schedules. But Wednesday night had its quota of excitement—the dramatic debut of a comedian named Godfrey Cambridge. He came on strong as on eof the most despicable villains in a season full of them.

Cambridge, with a reasonably exact facsimile of a British accent, played the last sultan of the Zulus and some kind of a nut, in NBC's "I Spy." The two heroes, who aren't spies at all and rarely catch spies, were in a perfectly dreadful mess trying to find out who was stealing industrial diamonds and radioactive cobalt.

The jolly team of secret agents, are played by Robert Culp and another comedian now happily lost to amusing drama, Bill Cosby. Wednesday night they were led to a picturesque Japanese village of oyster farmers. The nasty, evil sultan for reasons not terribly clear, was hiding his diamonds and cobalt in fake oyster shells in the farmers' undersea beds.

For the first 40 minutes, the two good guys were kicked and beaten up quite a lot, but no matter how tough things got, they managed to exchange merry dialogue. And in the end, the naughty sultan lay dying on his diamonds as sticks of deadly cobalt showered down upon him.

This series does come up with some pretty preposterous plots, but it is still one of the season's superior new series. That is partly because the exteriors are often dramatically beautiful — and authentic since many of them were shot on location in the Orient. But mostly it is because of the jaunty, casual performance of the two stars.

Earlier in the evening Bob Hope's theater, also on NBC, had a well-acted and nicely constructed hour drama called "When Hell Froze." Jane Wyman played a farm wife of about 40 years ago with a coldly jealous and fanatic husband.

Recommended tonight: "The Magnificent Yankee," NBC, 8:30-10 EST, with Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne in a repeat performance of the drama about Oliver Wendell Holmes and his wife.

Storm Whisks Rain Along West Coast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A storm whisked rain inland along the West Coast today from San Francisco to Puget Sound, while parts of the Northeast remained snarled by a heavy blanket of snow.

The weather picture in the rest of the country was generally good, the Weather Bureau said.

The heavy snow coating was left behind earlier this week in the Northeast by the worst blizzard barrage in seven decades. Cleanup toil continued, especially in central New York State where Oswego was overwhelmed by 102 inches of snow which left drifts piled as high as 30 feet.

Even as schools remained closed in the heavy snow area, the visitation's silver lining was recognized in expected abatement of the water shortage in part of the Northeast.

Lack of water for city reservoirs and in the soil has been an increasingly grave problem in the heavily populated quarter of the country.

Forecasters usually examine the possibility of flood threat from such heavy snowfall.

This worry was not absent, but the Weather Bureau also had this observation: The four-year drought which has plagued the Northeast had far more ominous consequences than a few days of misery caused by the blizzard. The one- to three-foot snowpack will add vital moisture to this parched area. The stored water will drain into depleted reservoirs and soak into parched soil when the thaw comes.

Water lack caused by a freeze-up of Ohio and Mississippi River sources slowed current in the big mainstream and brought heavy icing to the major transportation segment of the Lower Mississippi. Barge tows had rough going in shallow, ice-choked reaches of the Lower Ohio and the Mississippi south of Cairo, Ill.

Cold weather in the East also caused icing of streams on the Middle Atlantic seaboard. The worst icing in five years put a 10-inch cap over the James River, blocking shipping. Heavy icing also caused trouble in the Chesapeake Bay area and Baltimore Harbor.

It was a cold night again on the northern Plains where the mercury shrank to levels around 20 below zero. The Southwest and southern Rockies, however, experienced a warmup.

On Getting Used To Mink

Dear Helen: About mink—there are two sides to the "stole" story, and phooey to the remarks by th have-nots. Here is my story:

For 16 Christmases my husband gave me a pair of man-tailored flannel pajamas. And being a strictly utilitarian type, I was delighted. But on the 17th, he gave me a beautiful mink stole!

When I went to the furrier (one of the best in New York City) to have it initialed, I tried to exchange it for a more serviceable and less showy Persian lamb jacket. However, I was talked out of it by the sales lady who had waited on my husband. He said to exchange would hurt him deeply as he had taken such care in choosing it.

So I started to wear my stole and was needed on all sides. Being a woman, I have my cat-ly moments, so these remarks annoyed me less than they did my very nice husband, who just couldn't understand them.

I continued to wear it, and I will say one thing for that mink — it added immeasurably to my self-assurance at social affairs. And my husband beams! have penned a small verse, which I think about covers it:

My friends don't like my hard-earned mink
They really can't abide it.

Well now, my dears, here's what I think —

Don't knock it till you've tried it! — Peggy

Dear Helen: Touché — mink-haters! Your clever poem could be applied to anything from automobile washers to private homes. — H.

Your Helping Hand Department

Dear Helen: In 1963 you printed the story of a brave little cowboy named Mike Priser from Xenia, Ohio. Mike had been in and out of hospitals since he was six. He was paralyzed. His "ranch" was only as big as his bed. The only shelter his toy horses had were the palms of his hands. "Someday," Mike would say, "I'm gonna have a real ranch and ride my horses all day long." He had jobs all planned for his four sisters to do on the ranch and had decided to buy his mother a station wagon because he felt she was a little heavy for a horse.

It was your column that told readers about Mike, and letters have come day after day ever since. Letters and pictures and toy horses, that made his day brighter and gave it meaning. A man in London, England, was unwrapping imports from a n old newspaper and read your story; he wrote to Mike. Letters from strangers came, strangers that became friends, friends that became loved ones.

Each letter offered a prayer, the same prayer that was spoken in our hearts every moment. We prayed that Mike would walk beside us on earth, but God chose for him to walk by His side in Heaven, on December 26, 1965.

May we thank everyone who cared so much for a little boy they never met? — Parents and Relatives of Mike Priser

Dear Helen: The letter you published about Terry Pessin brought a tremendous response. Could you mention in your column that she is trying to answer as many as she can, and she wants to thank all the wonderful people who have made her convalescence a brighter one. — Mrs. Leo Pessin, 2112 Brandis Ave., Cinnaminson, N. J.

Dear Helen: Russell Surgeon, the 8-year-old brain tumor patient of Grants Pass, Ore., has enjoyed so much the wonderful cards, letters and Christmas packages he received. However, he can no longer read his own mail nor understand it so please no more letters. Thanks again for helping a boy in a battle only a miracle will let him win. — His Nurse

This column is dedicated to family living, so if you're having kid trouble or just plain trouble, let Helen Help YOU. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Address Helen Bittel in care of Hope Star.

No Circus, Says Senator of Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J.W. Fulbright says "we are not trying to put on a circus" with the Senate hearings which re-open today on the U.S. involvement in Viet Nam.

Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat who heads the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "these public hearings will continue as long as they are fruitful."

He told newsmen witnesses will testify before his committee by invitation only.

Fulbright said there are no immediate plans to recall Secretary of State Dean Rusk to the stand, but added he would be "very surprised if the committee feels it is through questioning the secretary of state."

At the moment, said Fulbright, "I have no burning questions to ask him."

Fulbright and several members of the committee had many burning questions to ask Rusk when he testified last week. They fired questions at him for four hours, focusing on how the United States got involved in the Viet Nam war and how it hopes to attain its objectives.

At that time, Fulbright told Rusk "I have been in Congress quite a long time, and I don't recall a ny issue about which there is so much apprehension."

Officially, the open hearing is on a request by President Johnson for $415 million in additional economic aid for the remainder of the fiscal year which ends next June 30. South Viet Nam would get $275 million of that total.

Retired Army Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and Retired Lt. Gen. James M. Gavin have been mentioned as possible witnesses.

Clarifying his views on Viet Nam, Gavin told a Boston news conference Thursday he thought Johnson's decision to resume the bombing of North Vietnam "these targets was "absolutely sound."

Gavin said he had not recommended withdrawal of U.S. ground forces to a few enclaves along the coast of South Viet Nam. "I'm talking about staying where we are, I didn't say we should withdraw," he told newsmen.

Gavin said he had read some remarks by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor who discussed Viet Nam in a New York speech Thursday. Taylor, former ambassador to Saigon and now a special adviser to the President, totally rejected the "enclave strategy" for Viet Nam. Without mentioning Gavin by name, he said such a strategy would amount to "a crushing defeat of international proportions" for the United States and a victory for Hanoi-Peking.

Gavin said "we aren't talking about the same thing." He said that when he talked about enclaves "I could have said several areas where we have an air base, a seaport and troops."

Novelty Gone, Milwaukee Didn't Support

By JAC KHAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Grant, chairman of the board of the New York Mets, testified Thursday that Milwaukee became a poor baseball town when the novelty wore off.

"Is your team a novelty in New York?" asked Willard Stalford, Wisconsin state counsel in cross-examination.

"It sure as hell is," replied Grant.

On that note, the New York phase of the pretrial maneuvering in Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League ended.

They were to resume taking of depositions in Chicago today, with Roy Hofheinz of the Houston Astros next in line.

Grant said he considered baseball dead in Milwaukee at present but later in the testimony said he would view future expansion in 1967, or later, with an open mind.

"They were only interested in the game when it was new and while it (the club) was on the top," Grant said under direct examination by Bowie Kuhn, special counsel for baseball.

"In 1964 they made a Herculean effort to sell baseball but the figure reached only $10,000," Grant said. "It was the straw that broke the camel's back."

Grant said the pros and cons of Milwaukee's situation had been discussed unofficially in league circles as early as late 1963 but the projected move to Atlanta was not brought up officially until August 1964.

Wisconsin is trying to halt the move of the Braves to Atlanta unless the National League expands and puts another team in Milwaukee.

Grant said it was his personal opinion that "the performance of the people (state of Wisconsin) including litigation can't help but hurt the chances of getting a franchise by forcing it down the throat of baseball."

The trial is supposed to open Feb. 28 at Milwaukee after more depositions are taken in Chicago and Milwaukee.

State to Tangle With Abilene

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Two of the Southland Conference's top basketball scorers collide Saturday night when Arkansas State College entertains Abilene Christian College.

The Indians, 13-3 for the season, have the Southland's leading scorer in John Dickson, a 6-foot-11 center averaging 21.5 points per game.

Charles Cleek of Abilene has scored 19 points a game and ranks as the league's No. 3 scorer.

The Wildcats lead the conference with a 3-0 record, including a 58-57 triumph over Arkansas State.

Sims, of Hazen, and Hawthorne, of Queen City, Tex., were members of the Porkers' No. 2 defensive unit last fall.

Lowly Pistons Making History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The lowly Detroit Pistons have made history at the expense of the lofty Boston Celtics but that hasn't stopped Celtics from hanging onto sole possession of first place in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

Wednesday night while St. Louis kept Philadelphia from tying for the top spot by defeating the 76ers 96-89. The Los Angeles Lakers edged Cincinnati 119-118 as the Royals missed an opportunity to gain on the leaders.

The Pistons' victory was their fourth over the Celtics in nine games this season, marking the first time since they moved to Detroit nine years ago that they have won more than three games from Boston in one season.

In winning the Pistons stopped a three-game winning streak that had put the Celtics back into first place in the East.

Desert Classic Leaders Have Long Way Yet

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Led by Harold Kneee, a personable young man with the nickname of Catfish, the unheralded professionals of golf continued to dominate the $100,000 Bob Hope Desert Classic as play resumed today.

But the 31-year-old Kneee, from Aiken, S.C., and his friends in the front ranks could remember one important point. There are still 54 holes to be played in this five-day, 90-hole tournament. And such fellows as Arnold Palmer, Bill Casper Jr., and Ken Venturi could make up a lot of ground in the three remaining rounds.

Kneee, whose nickname stems from his boyhood when he loved to fish, leads the field by four strokes with successive rounds of 68 for 136.

Tied up at 140 as the third round began was Jack McGowan, with 66-74; R. H. Sikes, 70-70 and Jack Rule, 72-68.

Palmer, with 71-70, was tied at 141 with six other players but his morale may suffer without a distinguished supporter.

That would be former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, who took personal command of Arnie and his Army Thursday at the Eldorado Country Club.

The Eisenhower is wintering at their home overlooking the golf course and Ike followed Palmer for nine holes.

The general, in one of his first appearances in public since his recent heart attack, looked thin but healthy. He wore brown slacks and matching sports jacket and a saucy straw hat, with a feather tacked in the ribbon.

Ike walked all but one of the nine holes — the long, par-5, No. 13 when he climbed into his golf cart — and frequently conversed with Palmer, apparently about Classic strategy.

The general and Palmer had the situation under control for the nine holes they toured together, leaving Palmer two under par. But when Ike left, Palmer was forced to make a truce with par on the other nine.

Casper, the 1965 Hope winner, slipped to a 73 and was tied at 142 with among others, Al Geiberger and Doug Sanders.

Kneee, who has been on the PGA circuit since 1960, has never won a tournament. But in each of the first two rounds here, he required only 20 putts, and in the second round, playing Indiana Wells, he had only one bogey.

Shockers Gain Top Rung in Conference

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
"As far as I'm concerned I'll keep saying we're going to win it until we're mathematically eliminated."

That's what Gary Thompson, coach of the Wichita Wheatshockers, said before the college football season opened last Dec. 1.

Hardly anyone took him seriously, yet today Wichita is perched in first place in the tough Missouri Valley Conference. The Shockers gained the top rung by defeating Drake 96-91 before 11,010 at Wichita, Kan., Thursday night.

Wichita won the MVC title last season despite the loss of All-American Dave Stallworth by graduation at midyear. Bradley was the preseason favorite to win the MVC this season, but Thompson refused to concede.

Jamie Thompson, Melvin Feed and Kelly Pete, three returnees from last year's club, and sophomore Warren Armstrong sparked Wichita over Drake for the Shockers' 10th victory in 15 games including a 4-2 MVC mark.

Thompson scored 26 points. Raymond 20, Pete 19 and Armstrong 15 as well as grabbing 13 rebounds. Their fast break and full-court press put the Shockers ahead to stay after the first five minutes. Harold Jeter's 24 points led the Bulldogs who played without 6-foot-8 Bob Neelick recently declared ineligible.

The game was the feature of a slim Thursday program which saw none of the Top Ten teams in The Associated Press poll in action.

Home-court victories were registered by North Carolina over Wake Forest 115-87, Clemson over Furman 107-72, Virginia over Virginia Tech 79-65, Georgetown, D.C., over George Washington 103-74, San Jose over Santa Clara 74-69 and Morehead over Marshall 94-79.

Would Like to Satisfy Milwaukee

NEW YORK (AP) — "I wish I had some magic and know how to come up with a plan to satisfy Milwaukee and keep baseball out of courts."

That is what William D. Eckert, the new baseball commissioner, said Thursday in acknowledging he can see no compromise plan in time to forestall a Feb. 28 Milwaukee trial of a lawsuit against the Braves.

"I have been in touch with all the parties interested in the Milwaukee situation and I'm available," Eckert said, "but the matter is not in my hands now. It is in court until the situation is settled."

The former Air Force general, who took over as commissioner last Nov. 18, said he was strongly in favor of expansion but emphasized such a program had to be worked out on a sound basis.

"Do I consider it a league matter?" he asked, anticipating a question. "It's obviously a league matter but it's also a matter for the commissioner. Anything pertaining to baseball is the commissioner's concern, the way I view it."

Milwaukee interests, faced with the prospect of losing the Braves to Atlanta, applied for another National League franchise last December. The request was denied.

"I don't think we can put a team in Milwaukee this year," Eckert declared. "In fact, I don't see how we can have expansion in the next year or so without diluting the present clubs. After all, we've had 25 per cent expansion in the last few years and I think that's quite something."

Father and Son Killed in Wreck

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — A father and his son were killed Thursday night when the car in which they were riding struck the rear of a stalled truck 14 miles southwest of here on Arkansas 30, police said.

State Trooper Marvin Cook identified the victims as Arvil Kelley, 52, of Forrest City, and Oland Ray Kelley, 19, of Jonesboro.

Cook said the Kelleys were in a car driven by Bobby Gene Henson, 25, of Jonesboro.

Cook quoted the truck driver, Lou Humelstein, 42, of Jonesboro, as saying he had put out reflectors and was awaiting help to repair a flat tire when the accident occurred.

Says Wirges Decision Political

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Republican Winthrop Rockefeller said Thursday that the Gene Wirges perjury case was a struggle between right and wrong.

"It's a fight between citizens and entrenched politicians willing to abuse their power and the power available to them at the state level to look after their own interests and perpetuate themselves in office," Rockefeller said in a statement.

Wirges, former publisher of the Morrilton Democrat, was convicted of perjury by a Conway County Circuit Court jury before dawn Thursday.

The tired and sleepy jury deliberated two hours, 14 minutes and returned the verdict at 3:58 a.m. It ended the trial that began Monday morning.

The perjury charge resulted from an investigation of Wirges' testimony at a 1963 trial of a $200,000 libel suit filed in connection with a column that appeared in the Democrat when it was published by Wirges.

Rockefeller said, "To some, the struggle is between personalities — newspaperman Gene Wirges and Sheriff Martin Hawkins... or between me and the governor of our state."

"This is not correct. The struggle is much bigger than any of us whose names may have been linked to it over the past few years," he said.

His only crime, Rockefeller said, was daring to openly criticize public officials, who were, in the opinion of Wirges' newspaper, misusing their office.

Rockefeller said he did not always agree with Wirges or his editorial views, but that Wirges' newspaper had the right to express its views and opinions on public issues.

"Conway County's political problems could never have developed except in the protective shadow of an indulgent state administration," Rockefeller said.

He said Wirges' cause is right and "we will support it in the future as we have done in the past."

Wirges, who had fought the Conway County political establishment for five years, said of the verdict:

"I was not surprised." His attorney, Tom Eisele of Little Rock, said a motion for a new trial would be filed as quickly as possible.

Circuit Judge Russell C. Roberts scheduled formal sentencing for 10 a.m. Saturday.

Haney Mainains His Average

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Jim Haney of Arkansas College maintained his Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference basketball scoring lead today, but two players were right on his heels.

Haney has averaged 20.3 points per game for the Highlanders. The pressure is coming from Harding's Ronnie Brown (19.8 average) and Arkansas A&M's Tommy Key (19.5 average).

Danny McCauley of A&M leads in rebounding with an average of 11.9 rebounds per game. Key is second with an 11.5 average.

Australia Plans Military Survey

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The government has ordered a survey of military facilities that could be established in Australia for joint use with Britain in case the British are forced to abandon their Singapore base.

Prime Minister Harold Holt told a news conference today after talks with British Defense Minister Denis Healey that the survey will be "merely exploratory."

"I don't want to give the impression that we regard Singapore as a write-off," he said. But he added that it seemed to make sense to examine practical alternatives for use should the British "presence" in Singapore become untenable in the future.

Healey flies home this week-end after explaining Britain's defense plans for the 1970s to Australian and New Zealand officials.

Court Action Guarantees Hoffa Vote

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court's review of James R. Hoffa's jury tampering conviction not only re-prieves the Teamsters Union president from prison, but virtually guarantees his re-election as head of the world's biggest labor union.

The court's decision to hear the case, like the blizzard that enveloped Washington, felt like a fistful of cold snow down the necks of those who want to unseat the controversial leader of the Teamsters.

"This means that practically anything Hoffa wants at the next convention, Hoffa gets," said one Teamster source.

And what Hoffa wants, many Teamsters insiders say, is to win a new five-year term as president and then change the constitution of the union so he can run it from jail if necessary and return to take over his plush office in the shadow of the U.S. Capitol.

Hoffa faces an eight-year sentence if the Supreme Court turns down his appeal, but could be paroled with 32 months.

And, jury tampering is not on eof the crimes that bans a labor leader from holding office under federal labor law.

All this means plenty of fireworks at the Teamsters July 4 convention in Miami Beach, with Hoffa setting off most of the rockets.

Cautious moves inside the union to dump Hoffa if he went to jail quickly went underground in the wake of Monday's Supreme Court decision to hear Hoffa's appeal.

Hoffa argues his conviction was illegal because a Justice Department spy—Louisiana
Teamsters official Edward Grady Partin — was planted in his inner councils during the trial at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Partin is under federal indictment for stealing union funds.
A spokesman for Einar Mohn, West Coast Teamsters vice president who earlier said he would run for the top job if Hoffa went to jail, said today,
"He's not going to put up any opposition to Hoffa."

There was also no hint of open opposition from Teamsters Vice President Harold Gibbons of St.
Louis, long an unannounced front-runner for Hoffa's $75,000-a-year job.

"If Hoffa is at the convention, he will have no opposition," a Gibbons spokesman said.

Teamsters sources differ over whether a Hoffa move to amend the union's constitution so he can pick his own successor or resume office after a prison term would provoke a fight. But they agree it would be an uphill battle with Hoffa handling the gavel.

"Who's going to stand up and say, 'Wait a minute, boss,'" said a Teamsters source.

High sources in the AFL-CIO, which wants to take the outcast Teamsters Union with its 1.7 million members back in once it is rid of Hoffa, agreed the Supreme Court ruling dashed cold water on this possibility "for a good long time."

It all depends on how quickly the Supreme Court acts on the appeal — and on Hoffa appeals of a later conviction for mail fraud involving Teamsters pension money.

But the possibility of a final court decision sending Hoffa to jail in either case before July appears about as slim as a snowball's chance in the Miami sunshine.

Hoffa, who quickly moved in and took over in 1957 when his predecessor Dave Beck went to jail on an income tax conviction, once again is in indisputable control of the giant union and its $1 billion in assets.

And those who covet Hoffa's job, but don't want to risk a toe-to-toe slugfest match, will have to wait awhile.

February, the Month That Everything Freezes and the Groundhog Sees His Shadow

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Let us make snowballs together and throw them at time.
What else is there to do?
It is February. The year is in cocoon.

In February, everything's in the deep freeze, paused and postponed.

The groundhog emerges, takes a yawning look at the wintry sky, crawls back into his den and starts snoring again.

Nothing grows on the suburban lawn, neither the forbidden crabgrass nor the hardy legions of the dandelion, whose yellow banners are still furled.

The ceiling of earth, the floor of heaven, is as leaden and gray as a dying face.

In February the noses of old men drip and their eyes are rheumy; the cheeks of children are chapped and red, and their noses are runny.

The pulse of life is muffled in February. Everything creaks, grinds, whines, sobs, groans or squeaks. People are grouchy and grumbly.

Nature itself is quiet. The owl glides toward its prey on silent feathers as its talons reach for the straining rabbit. All that is heard in the everlasting hills are the sounds of snapping ice-laden branches and the everlasting wails of skiers with broken limbs.

What else is wrong with February? Well, let's see:
If you are paid by the week, it has the fewest paydays of any month on the calendar. It is also the month with the fewest rainbows.

Few men get raises or promotions in February. No matter how well you do your job the boss doesn't notice it. He's down in Florida or the Bahamas playing golf.

All you have to do is to sneeze in a crowded bus and you make 46 mortal enemies.

In February you can't even go on a successful diet. The cold makes you too hungry.

It is true that St. Valentine's Day, the anniversary of true lovers, falls in February. But if you send her a sentimental card she is likely to freeze up, too, and remain unthawed until June. She can't wear a card on her engagement finger.

So come, let us make snowballs together and throw them at time.

Race Track Digs Out of Blizzard

BOWIE, Md. (AP) — Bowie
Race Course continued to dig out of a blizzard that whipped across Maryland over the weekend and planned to resume racing Friday.

The track has lost five days already — four this week — and also has been the scene of a barn fire that claimed the lives of 43 horses.

Weakness Bid Directs Lead

By JACOBY & SON
1965 Vanderbilt Cup Winners
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

One of the great advantages of the weak two bid is that it gives you a chance to tell your partner what to lead when otherwise you would be shut out of the bidding.

This is a strong reason why we only open weak two bids with a good suit. There is little point in telling your partner to open a suit when you really don't want it led.

Suppose that East is not playing weak two bids and passes his hand.

South has a perfect opening no-trump bid and makes it, whereupon North takes him right to three no-trump. West is on lead and will almost surely open a heart, whereupon South will have no trouble making at least ten tricks.

Now see what happens if East opens a weak two bid. South will have a terrific problem. If he passes East will simply play at two spades and go down one trick. If he bids two no-trump, it is a cinch that North will take him to three and, after West opens a spade, South will find himself going down two tricks.

Things will work out better if South elects to double the two-spade bid for take-out. North will bid some number of clubs. If he bids only three clubs, he will play the hand there and wind up making his part score. If he bids four clubs, he will be taken to five.

North can make five clubs on a squeeze if East makes the normal opening of a spade, and North plays West for the queen, ten and nine of diamonds.

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South

2 ♣ 2 ♣ 2 ♣ 2 ♣
You, South, hold:

What do you do now?

A—Bid three spades. If you want to overbid a trifle, try four spades.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You bid three spades and your partner bids four clubs. What do you do now?

Feel U.S. Is Drifting Into Bigger War

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent
WASHINGTON (AP)—In the spreading Senate debate over Vietnam war policy, the hawks and the doves agree on one issue.

They feel the United States is drifting into a bigger and more dangerous conflict and they want to know what President Johnson plans to do about it.

The two-front attack on his policy— from those who want it softer and those who would get tougher— threatens a severe challenge to Johnson's war leadership in the weeks ahead.

But it is also a challenge to the meaning of 10 years of violent history. For U. S. intervention in Viet Nam has built from the beginning a record of disappointed hopes, rising costs and drift into a war both dangerous and undeclared.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and a critic of Johnson's policies, told Secretary of State Dean Rusk a few days ago that he doubted the existence of an adequate legal base for what the United States is doing in Viet Nam, going back to the start of the policy 10 years ago.

Yet Fulbright said that the raising of questions does not necessarily mean opposition to policy but primarily a desire for clarification.

"There is a lack of understanding of the situation in Viet Nam," Fulbright said. "All I am asking for is a clarification of United States policy."

Behind some of the senatorial attacks on Johnson's policy seems to lie concern over the fact that the shooting conflict has never been declared by Congress as a war, is not being fought under United Nations sponsorship as was the war in Korea, and involves an open-ended commitment which could mean war with Communist China some day, perhaps even nuclear war with the Soviet Union.

Johnson has every confidence—as he has made clear publicly and privately—that he has all the authority he needs to conduct military operations and commit more and more forces as he judges necessary. He also recognizes that Congress has the power to deny its approval of what he does and to withhold money.

Homer's poems were the world's first school textbook before the invention of printing gave the textbook new impetus. In America, the textbook was imported from England. Popular education in the 19th century in the United States brought the first flood of schoolbooks. McGuffey's famous "Reader" sold more than 120 million copies. Today, half of all the books printed in the world are textbooks.

TO STOP HEADACHES — RELEASE PRESSURE

By Dr. Charles Johnson

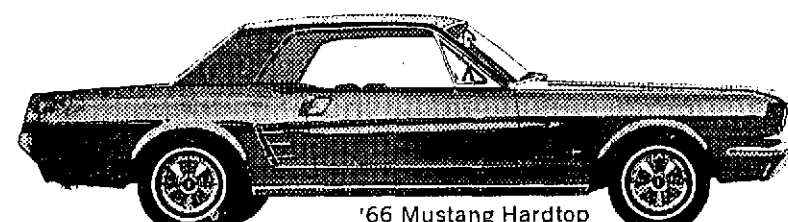

Thousands of people suffer because of headaches. Some of them for many years have taken all sorts of treatments that only temporarily reduce the pain and never get to the fundamental basic cause. Chiropractic adjustments will correct this nerve interference, releasing pressure that causes tension and headaches.

Architect's View of New Red River Technical School Located Here

ABOVE IS THE ARCHITECT'S DRAWING OF THE new Red River Technical School in Hope. Formal groundbreaking will be held Friday at 4 p.m. at the site on Highway 29 South.

IN CONNECTION WITH THE GROUNDBREAKING the remodeled Third District Livestock Show Coliseum will be dedicated at 7 p.m. and the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner will follow. Principal guest speaker for the occasion will be Governor Orval Faubus. A large crowd is expected.

Improvements Made at Hope Coliseum

Hope is the location of one of the five District Livestock Shows in the State of Arkansas. In 1947 some of the first money was appropriated by the Arkansas Legislature, through the efforts of Hope and Southwest Arkansas citizens, for new buildings at the Livestock Show Grounds. Our particular area is the Third District of Arkansas and the area comprises 17 Southwest Arkansas Counties.

The Coliseum building, constructed in the late 1940's and early 1950's and is the only one of its type, with a covered Rodéo Arena, between Dallas, Texas and Little Rock, Arkansas.

Numerous improvements and additions have been made through the years and the present contract for $30,000.00 has made it possible for the citizens of this area to have a meeting place for large groups of people, trade shows or other uses where a large number of people are involved.

During the past four years the exhibit section of this building, which will accommodate approximately 1,000 people, has been almost completely rebuilt and during the next few years the Third District Livestock Show Board, which is composed of people from all 17 counties in the district, hopes to make still further improvements to this building and others on the Show Grounds.

For the past several months, Dr. Pattison has been traveling in the interest of the "Charismatic Revival" testifying to what it means to be filled with the Holy Spirit.

Russia Makes Soft Landing on the Moon

By JOHN WEYLAND MOSCOW (AP) — An unmanned Soviet space station was transmitting from the surface of the moon today after history's first safe landing of a traveler from the earth. The Soviets gave no clue, however, to the information they were receiving.

The Soviet space vehicle Luna 9 landed on the moon Thursday after a three-day flight from the earth. It was the first spacecraft to make a soft landing on the moon—with its instruments intact.

Scientists at the Jodrell Bank radio observatory in England said Luna 9 sent facsimile pictures back to earth, but an official Soviet spokesman declined to confirm the report or answer other questions.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said: "Radio contact with the station on the surface of the moon is reliable. Transmissions are on 183.538 megacycles. The instruments on board the station are functioning normally."

There was no official word on the size, shape, construction or weight of the space craft but its thought to weigh more than 3,000 pounds.

Jodrell Bank said Luna 9 transmitted facsimile pictures from its landing at 9:45 p.m. Moscow time (1:45 p.m. EST) until 10:05, went off the air, and resumed signals shortly after midnight (9 p.m. EST). The British scientists had no means of unscrambling the signals.

Congratulations from heads of states around the world started to pour into Moscow as soon as the landing was announced.

"Your accomplishment is one that can benefit all mankind and all mankind applauds it," said President Johnson in a message to President Nikolai Podgorny.

Experts could not agree whether Luna 9's soft landing put the Soviet Union ahead of the United States in the space race generally or only in a particular phase. The United States expects to make its first try for a soft landing in May.

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the Jodrell Bank observatory, said the feat "puts the Russians ahead in the space race."

U.S. space officials at Cape Kennedy, Fla., praised the Soviet success and conceded it gave the Soviets a lead in this phase of the race to put a man on the moon.

Found Warm Spot, Wanted to Stay

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — It was Kentucky's worst snowstorm in more than 40 years and State Sen. Pleaz Mobley didn't want to leave the chambers of Kentucky's General Assembly.

Nineteen other senators voted to adjourn but that didn't bother Mobley. "I found a nice warm place at last and I'd like to stay here," he explained.

Open House Sunday at Grade School

Open House will be held in Fulton, Hopewell, Shover Street and Yerger High School, Sunday, February 6, from 2 to 5.

The purpose is to give parents and patrons of Hempstead County an opportunity to see the instructional materials and equipment that has been purchased and placed in the various classrooms through Title I of the Elementary and Secondary School Act.

Approximately $45,000 has been spent in providing equipment, Supplies, and Textbooks for the improvement of instruction in these schools.

It is urged that every parent see how these materials may be used in the instruction program. Demonstrations will be given by the teachers and materials will be placed on exhibition.

All citizens, White and Negro, are invited to come and spend a few minutes with the school, Sunday, February 6, from 2 to 5 p.m.

NEA Report Disputed by Rozzell

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Forrest Rozzell has disputed a National Education Association (NEA) report that 40 Negro teachers in Arkansas were among 452 in the South who lost their jobs because of school desegregation.

Rozzell, executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association, called the report "a shoddy piece of alleged research." He said he had received a list of 70 Negro teachers and one white teacher who lost jobs because of desegregation.

Dr. R. K. Bent, professor of education at the University of Arkansas, said Rozzell was "off the beam 100 per cent." Bent headed a task force that researched the matter for the NEA.

"This is the shoddiest piece of alleged research the NEA has ever been connected with," Rozzell said. "It violates every accepted rule of evidence and research. It makes no effort to be objective, factual or rational."

He said the report was so shoddy that it "raises a cloud of suspicion not only as to its reliability and validity but also as to the motives behind it." Bent said the task force was not interested in why the teachers were dismissed.

He said the task force was concerned with getting teachers jobs.

"We got such information as how long she has taught, her experience, what kind of certificate she had and so forth," Bent added.

Jets Increase Intensity But Two Are Lost

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SOUTH VIET NAM (AP) — U.S. jets struck North Viet Nam with mounting intensity today, but two more American planes were reported lost in the renewed air war and a U.S. helicopter went down in South Viet Nam.

Ground action in South Viet Nam dwindled to only light sporadic action against minor Viet Cong units. Operation Masher, the big Allied drive on the central coast led by the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Air Mobile Division took on a new name — Operation White Wing — and a objective.

The two planes lost in North Viet Nam raised the number of jets downed to five since the resumption of the air attacks five days ago. U.S. officials list four airmen as missing.

A twin-jet A-1A Vigilante from the carrier Kitty Hawk was crippled by ground fire Thursday and crashed two miles off shore about 35 miles northeast of Vinh, a U.S. spokesman said. Rescue craft spotted the Vigilante's life rafts aboard two Communist boats leaving the area. The two crewmen were listed as missing in action.

U.S. officials belatedly announce that an A4 Skyhawk from the carrier Ranger was written off as lost and its pilot missing in action after it disappeared into cloud cover on Tuesday.

The crews of the two other U.S. planes lost earlier were rescued by helicopter.

Hanoi Radio claimed North Vietnamese gunners shot down five U.S. jets Thursday and captured several American pilots.

In South Viet Nam, a Marine helicopter lost altitude after it took off from the Chu Lai coastal airfield and settled into the sea 200 yards from shore. One of the crewmen was injured fatally but the other three escaped with minor injuries.

But Luna 9 touched down and established firm radio contact with Soviet ground stations, demonstrating that — not matter what the surface is made of — the Russians have designed a spaceship capable of surviving.

Any photographs and information which the spacecraft sends back will help in development of a manned lunar landing vehicle.

Space officials at Cape Kennedy praised the Soviet success and conceded it had given them a lead in this phase of the man-to-the-moon race.

But they said it did not necessarily mean the Russians had gained the over-all lead in the lunar sweepstakes. They noted the United States leads in many areas in its drive to land astronauts on the moon by 1970. Included are most manned space flight time, longest flights, medical data, space rendezvous and maneuverable spacecraft.

The Soviet Union holds a slight edge in rocket power, and the two nations are even in manned space walks.

Other goals must be achieved before men venture to the moon. A key one is the joining of two vehicles in space, which the United States hopes to do with the Gemini 8 flight in March.

Plane Carrying 133 Persons Lost Off Japan

By EUGENE LEVIN

TOKYO (AP) — A Japanese jet liner with 133 Japanese reported aboard disappeared into the darkness over Tokyo Bay tonight, and airline officials said they assumed it had crashed in what could be the world's worst single plane disaster.

An airline spokesman said the plane "almost certainly crashed into Tokyo Bay."

He made the statement after the plane had been overdue at Tokyo airport for more than two hours and its fuel would have been used up.

The plane, a Boeing 727 jet operated by All-Nippon Airways, was on a flight from Chitose, northern Japan, to Tokyo.

All-Nippon, amending an earlier report, said the plane carried 128 passengers and a crew of seven.

In the worst previous disaster in aviation history involving a single plane, 130 persons were killed in the crash of an Air France jumbo near Paris on June 3, 1958, International Airport, lost contact with the Boeing seconds after it had been cleared for a landing.

An airline official said just before the plane was cleared to take off, a pilot reported a malfunction in his instruments and said he would make a visual landing.

Officials said the plane was 18 miles from the airport when it disappeared from the airport radar screens.

The three-jet liner was scheduled to land at the Tokyo airport at 7 p.m. (5 a.m. EST). A minute before that it was given clearance to land, airline officials said, then seconds later radio contact was broken.

Japan's Maritime Safety Board, the country's coast guard, sent patrol boats crisscrossing the bay in search.

The Maritime Safety Board said a Japanese ship, cruising on Tokyo Bay, the Kita Maru, reported something resembling a fireball in the sky at 6:57 p.m. about two miles southeast of the airport.

Landing Is Proof Man to Explore Moon

By HOWARD BENEDICT

AP Aerospace Writer CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — With the successful soft landing of Luna 9, the Russians apparently have proved that man can safely explore the moon.

They also put added pressure on America's troubled Surveyor program, which hopes to make a similar landing in May.

Until Luna 9 settled gently onto the dry, relatively flat Ocean of Storms Thursday, scientists were divided on whether the moon's surface could support a landing.

Some felt the surface might be a thick layer of dust or a fragile honeycomb structure that would swallow a heavy spacecraft.

But Luna 9 touched down and established firm radio contact with Soviet ground stations, demonstrating that — not matter what the surface is made of — the Russians have designed a spaceship capable of surviving.

Any photographs and information which the spacecraft sends back will help in development of a manned lunar landing vehicle.

Space officials at Cape Kennedy praised the Soviet success and conceded it had given them a lead in this phase of the man-to-the-moon race.

But they said it did not necessarily mean the Russians had gained the over-all lead in the lunar sweepstakes. Auspicious Moment for Hope and Its Trade Territory

This is the day we break ground for the Red River Vocational Technical School — and it is an auspicious moment for Hope and southwest Arkansas.

Hope Chamber of Commerce has incorporated the celebration of this event in its annual membership meeting. Ground-breaking ceremonies will be conducted at the trade school site on State Highway 29 just south of town at 4 p.m., followed by the chamber banquet meeting in the newly remodeled Coliseum in Fair Park at 7 p.m.

Actually this is a double-blessed day of celebration — the improved Coliseum representing the state's faith in the future of the Third District Livestock Show, which is domiciled in Fair Park; and the state's location here of the trade school for the southwestern counties meaning a giant step forward for the local economy.

The basic worth of the trade school, of course, is that it puts skills into the hands of unskilled people, enabling them to improve their individual earning power and to that extent improving the level of earnings for our entire region.

The new school should bring several hundred apprentices into our area, and whether they choose to live in Hope or its neighbor towns our trade area will be helped economically. The effects of a large and well-equipped training center are immediate and widely dispersed. It is something like a paper mill — it helps towns for 50 miles around.

For the individual the trade school means a personal bonanza. A year ago a man digging some post-holes for me asked earnestly if the new school would teach operation and maintenance of heavy equipment such as bulldozers and other earth-moving machines. I told him, yes, it would. He was immensely pleased. It developed that he had been a tank driver in World War II, but reverted to common labor as a civilian. He hadn't forgotten the feel of handling big machines, but there was no opportunity to go on with what he had started to learn.

Now there is that opportunity — for him and hundreds like him.

U.S. Bringing Back Village Blacksmith

By DOROTHY CLEAL

Martinsville Bulletin

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Construction is under way near here on a federally financed trade school designed to put the village smithy back under the chestnut tree.

Classes begin at the resident school of farriery in May.

Even the project's consultants at Virginia Polytechnic Institute had to consult a dictionary to find out that farriery is the trade of shoeing a horse.

Yet, the Small Business Administration has found enough demand for farriers to finance the project with a $15,000 loan.

Recipient of the loan is Luther (Smokey) Ward, 54, who will be headmaster and teacher of the school. He will have a maximum of 16 students for each 12-week course the year around.

Both men and women will be eligible to study at the school on a one-acre tract east of this city near the North Carolina border.

Says Ward, who shod his first horse at the age of 12 under the tutelage of his father, "It's a fact there are more horses in the country than ever before — and less farriers."

"And when a horse needs a pair of shoes, he can't wait." Ward, a personable, folksy man who plays entertaining bluegrass guitar, is one of the best-known horseshoers in the Southeast. He services customers in several states, traveling in a van that is a blacksmith shop on wheels.

Students at Ward's school are to be ready after the course to set up their own blacksmith shops. Tuition will cover room and board and occasional trips to horse shows.

Queries have come from people in seven states and Canada, Ward says.
